The Reviews, after giving many large and interesting extracts from this work, concludes thus:

☞ This book well deserves the perusal of the most learned of our readers. Its author's great learning is uninfected with pe- dantry; his mind is penetrating, judicious, diveſted of prejudice, fraught with humanity, intent on the inforcement and diſcovery of important truth. It is particularly calculated to direct the ſtudies of young ſcholars, and to prevent a haſty and inconſiderate ſearch of knowledge, the reſult of which is, much reading, and little ſolid information. In the language of metaphor it may be ſtiled,

A KEY TO INTELLECTUAL TREASURES.
